

Mossadegh Booted Out By Followers of Shah

TEHRAN (AP)—Forces loyal to the absent monarch swept iron-willed Premier Mohammed Mossadegh out of power with a bloody and violent nine-hour coup Wednesday.

At least 300 persons were killed and Mossadegh's chief henchman was reported torn to pieces.

The young Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, a fugitive in Rome, said he would fly back at once to reclaim his throne. Mossadegh had forced him to flee Sunday.

The aged premier himself fled from his bed in a Hitler-type bunker from which he has ruled this country with tears and an iron fist for almost three years.

Mossadegh's present whereabouts were unknown. Mobs pillaged his fortress home and peddled his furniture in the bazaars for souvenirs.

The uprising was led by Major-General Fazlollah Zahedi, whom the shah named as premier Sunday, before he left the country in his private plane with Queen Soraya.

Infuriated mobs tore to pieces Col. Ezzatollah Montaz, who betrayed last Sunday's abortive royalist uprising to Mossadegh's henchmen.

Jail doors were opened and Mossadegh's No. 1 lieutenant, Hussein Fatemi, who only Tuesday night threatened to hang the shah, was also reported torn to pieces by mobs. Fatemi was violently anti-British, disliked Americans and was considered the unyielding strong man behind Mossadegh.

Zahedi was reported to have taken refuge among wild, pro-shah tribesmen in remote Azerbaijan after Sunday's fiasco. He emerged to take over the country.

The new regime called on the shah to return from Rome and take the reins.

Zahedi broadcast an eight-point program to the people of Iran.

"Dear compatriots," he said, "in the name of the Almighty I address you. By order of His Majesty, Mohammed Shah Reza Pahlavi, I have been appointed your premier. Past governments have made many promises but have accomplished very little.

"The nation must know that I am the lawful premier on the shah's orders.

"The principal points of my program are:

1. The rule of law.
2. Raising the standards of living.
3. Free health service for all.
4. Mechanization of agriculture.
5. Road construction.
6. Insurance of public security.

Jubilant Ruler Plans Return

ROME (AP)—The handsome young shah of Iran, a forlorn fugitive monarch 24 hours ago, made plans jubilantly Wednesday night to fly back to his throne in Tehran.

He hoped to charter a plane overnight and take off Thursday for the return to his country, whence he fled in great haste Sunday.

The shah said in a private interview he wanted to go back at once "to halt bloodshed and restore order in Iran under the monarchy." Tehran dispatches said order had been restored in

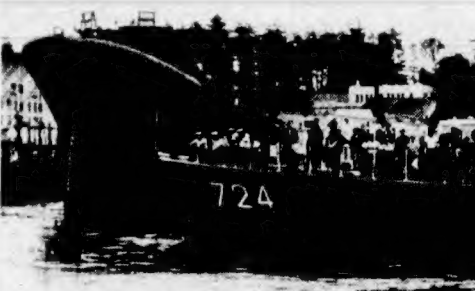

As furious battles raged in the streets of Tehran, radio became the only means of communication. Cable and telephone service overseas was cut off.

Tehran after the nine-hour royalist coup.

Pacing his hotel suite, the shah, Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, beamed joyously over the reports.

It was an hour of blazing triumph for the 33-year-old ruler who fled by plane as Mossadegh's tank troops seized the palace Sunday.

But, tempering his enthusiasm with caution, the shah waited by a radio tuned to Tehran and inquired repeatedly for telegrams or messages that might bring later news.

MLA May Be Denied Leave for Session

Victoria MLA Percy Wright may be denied leave of absence by the city for the fall session of the legislature, city officials indicated Wednesday.

Mr. Wright is assistant city clerk. He applied to City Manager Cecil Wyatt for leave without pay so he could take his newly-won seat in the provincial government.

Mayor Claude Harrison said Wednesday that city council had no power to grant such a leave.

"There is no provision in the Municipal Act to allow it," said the mayor. "We must live within the bounds of the act."

The mayor indicated that Mr. Wright's only course was either to resign from his job or resign his seat.

A Social Credit candidate in the Victoria riding, Mr. Wright won his seat by a large majority along with two other Socialists, Mrs. Lydia Arsens and W. N. Chant.

Mr. Wright has had no official reply to his application from the manager. Mr. Wyatt asked City Clerk Frank Hunter, Mr. Wright's immediate superior, for a recommendation. Mr. Hunter recommended that in view of the fact that city council and the mayor authorized the assistant clerk to run for office, knowing he might be elected, the leave should be granted.

He admitted, however, he was opposed to Mr. Wright's running for office in the first place on a matter of principle.

"It's only fair now to grant him the leave after authorizing him to run," he said.

In the meantime, both the mayor and City Solicitor Arthur Patton feel the city is powerless to grant the leave and, in addition, might run into difficulty with the terms of the civic employees' working agreement.

A decision to deny Mr. Wright the leave of absence is bound to find some opposition in city council. At least two Social Credit members of council, and possibly others, will probably support his application.

Asked about school teachers (Frank Snowball and Hon. Wesley Black) who were given leave of absence to sit in the legislature, Mayor Harrison and the manager said school boards are given much broader powers in such matters.

Mr. Wright, meanwhile, has given no indication of what he intends to do if his application is officially turned down.

Pilots Agree To Split Prize

KETCHIKAN, Alaska (AP).—Southeastern Alaska bush pilots in the search of a missing Mexican oil man's plane agreed Wednesday that if any one of them wins the $25,000 reward offered for information leading to the rescue of five persons aboard they will divide it.

A dozen amateur and professional pilots of small planes are engaged in the search along with about twice that number of military planes.

Robert E. Ellis, head of the airline, said the pilots agreed at a meeting that the finder would get $10,000 and the others would divide the balance.

Navy on Show for Victoria

Six-year-old Brian Tindall of 20 Kelly Road is shown being briefed in the operation of a 40-mm. anti-aircraft gun aboard HMCS Cayuga Wednesday afternoon in the naval dockyard, Esquimalt. His instructor is AB Bert Barker of Victoria. Brian was a victim of polio last year and still wears a brace on his right leg. (See stories, Page 17.)

The Fairmile 724 served as a sightseeing vessel Wednesday afternoon during Navy Day. It made tours of Esquimalt Harbor every 45 minutes.

Pacific Command of the Royal Canadian Navy opened its Navy Day festivities Wednesday in Victoria with a parade which wound through the downtown streets in the morning. The parade started at the Bay Street Armory at 10 a.m. and was cheered by a crowd of approximately 20,000 lining the parade route.

'Witnesses' in Quebec Forest Fire

Pair Held in Arson Probe

FORESTVILLE, Que. (CP).—Police Wednesday night held two men as "important" witnesses in connection with suspected arson in two forest fires at Ste. Therese du Colombier, 20 miles east of here.

Police did not identify the men but said one was the uncle of the other. Both are in their late 20s.

It was understood police believed the two men were not far from the place where two fires originated when they were first noticed Monday. Police said so far they have uncovered no motive for the alleged arson.

The two men are being held under guard by Anglo-Canadian Pulp and Paper Company police, under supervision and at the request of Quebec provincial police.

Half the town is owned by the company, which has a lease on huge timber lands in the district.

Meanwhile, more than 800 lumberjacks aided by a shift in wind and damp, cool weather, slowly hemmed in the major blaze, one of the most devastating in Quebec's history.

The fire, which now has come under provincial police investigation, almost touched off the evacuation of tiny St. Therese Monday.

Fifty men were rushed by plane from Rimouski into the area, 200 miles east of Quebec,

Russia Explodes Hydrogen Bomb; Urges No Alarm

Reports to U.S. Confirm Casual Story in Pravda

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Russia announced Thursday that she recently tested an experimental hydrogen bomb "of great strength." But she told the Western world that this should be no cause for alarm.

The news was announced by Pravda, official Soviet Communist party newspaper, a little less than two weeks after Prime Minister Malenkov told the Supreme Soviet that the "United States no longer has a monopoly of the hydrogen bomb."

The U.S. Atomic Energy Com-

Plane Clues Found

KETCHIKAN, Alaska (AP).—An oil slick on an isolated island sound and reports of a wandering plane along the coastal inlets led Wednesday to a stepped-up search in southeastern Alaska for a missing New Mexico plane with five persons aboard.

They were new clues in one of the north's largest aerial searches, in which 28 military aircraft of the United States and Canada are participating. A dozen or more small-plane pilots were also scanning an estimated 6,000 square miles of southeast Alaska while most of the military planes concentrated on the British Columbia mainland.

An oil slick was found at the mouth of Moira Sound, on Prince of Wales Island. That is almost directly west of the Annette Island airport from which Ellis Hall, 54-year-old Albuquerque oil man, took off with his wife, two daughters and 17-year-old Patrick Hibben late Monday.

As the day's checking of fishing craft and fish-trap tenders along the bleak Alaska coast proceeded, the clues drew a trail of a wandering plane southward along the coast at low altitude.

It was reported to have turned up Very Inlet, toward H.C. but a fish-trap tender said later that a plane believed to be the same wanderer came out of the inlet and turned back northwestward toward Annette.

That clue brought the divergent lines of the search back toward a centre again as search leaders said the plane might have headed toward Annette and flown beyond to disaster in Moira Sound.

Washington Issues Statement

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, issued this statement Wednesday night:

"The Soviet Union conducted an atomic test on the morning of August 12. Certain information to this effect came into our hands that night. Subsequent information on the subject indicates that this test involved both fission and thermonuclear reactions.

"It will be recalled that more than three years ago the United States decided to accelerate work on all forms of atomic weapons. Both in 1951 and the 1952 Eniwetok test series included tests involving similar reactions."

"The AEC declined further comment."

"Thermo-nuclear" is the term scientists use to describe a hydrogen explosion.

Canada's Ming Sung Ships Reported Carrying War Goods for China

By F. K. Wu
HONG KONG (CP).—The seven Canadian-owned Ming Sung motor vessels have been converted from passenger to cargo ships and are being used by the Chinese Communists to transport war materials.

Reports from Canton say the celebrated ships, built in Canada in 1947 for the Ming Sung Industrial Company Ltd., are known to be operating in international waters outside Hong Kong and could be intercepted by Canadian destroyers visiting the British colony. Students of international law here say the Canadian ships would be entitled to seize the ships if they are found on the high seas.

Government officials at Ottawa declined comment on the Canton reports that the ships are being used by the Chinese Reds to transport war materials. They also refused to say whether Canadian warships had the right to seize them on the high seas under international law.

"It's too complicated a legal question to make any comment on," said an official of the external affairs department. The navy at Ottawa also declined comment on the legality of Canadian warships seizing the Ming Sung ships. However, a naval spokesman said the three Canadian destroyers now in the Far East could not seize the vessels.

The destroyers are operating under United Nations command, the Ottawa naval spokesman explained. He was unaware of any seizure order being issued to the three destroyers by the UN.

The seven vessels became the property of the Canadian government after the collapse of Nationalist China. However, they were rushed to Communist-held Canton in 1951, a move which prevented Canada from taking possession.

The seven ships were built in Canadian shipyards by the Ming Sung company with a $12,750,000 loan from a number of Canadian banks guaranteed by the Chinese Nationalist and Canadian governments. The company and the Chinese government defaulted on principal and interest payments in 1951 and the Canadian government was obliged to carry out its guarantee.

While the Canadian government held the mortgage on the ships, it has rescinded an order-in-council which granted the vessels the right to fly the Canadian flag. However, they are still registered as Canadian ships in the hope that at some future date Canada will be able to collect the mortgages or take possession.

The Canton reports say the ships were converted to cargo carriers by the Reds after being idle at Canton for more than a year. The three larger ships, the Fu Men, Yen Men and Yu Men, of 3,000 tons each, are reported to be carrying strategic goods and military materials between Canton and Peihai, a port on Hainan Island. The smaller ships, the Shih Men, Chi Men, Lung Men and Chien Men, of 1,000 tons each, are operating between Canton and Kuangchow, also known as Fort Bayard, on the Kwangtung coast about 250 miles southwest of Hong Kong.

Hainan Island, which lies off the coast of South China, is a newly established air and naval base for the joint use of Soviet Russia and Communist China. Port Bayard, now re-named Chanchiang, is the supply base for the Communist-led Viet-minh insurgents in French Indo-China.

Shipping circles here also believe that the vessels are being used to move strategic goods between Canton and an island known as La Sha Wei, or Garbage Dump, about 25 miles west of Hong Kong.

The island is located outside Chinese territorial waters but few foreign warships are on patrol in this area due to the proximity of Communist shore batteries. It is safe for the ships to make quick dashes between Canton and Garbage Dump, a distance of about 90 miles, without fear of interception by Canadian warships.

Garbage Dump, according to reports here, is now a huge warehouse of war materials and strategic goods shipped to Communist China from Europe.

Ocean-going vessels unload their cargoes on the island. They are then loaded on the Men ships and other vessels for shipment up the Pearl River to Canton. Smaller vessels take their cargoes to the port of Whampoa, 10 miles east of Canton.

Both Canton and Whampoa are connected by railways to central and north China and southwest Kwangsi Province as far as the border of French Indo-China.

The Peiping regime is buying or bartering strategic goods from Ceylon, India, Pakistan, Czechoslovakia, Sweden, Belgium and other countries. The supplies are all landed at Garbage Dump in view of the Hong Kong embargo on the movement of strategic supplies to Red China.

Since Nationalist China and the Ming Sung company defaulted, the Canadian government has reduced its liability to the banks from $12,750,000 to $10,200,000 as of March 31, 1953, Ottawa reports say.

However, this $2,550,000 reduction in the principal does not represent all government payments to the banks. Interest accounted for an additional $490,163.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

RECENTLY a Royal Roads cadet and a girl were killed by gas in Victoria.

Every witness at the inquest noted the absence of a smell of gas in the auto-court cabin where the two died. And yet the pathologist's report showed death by gas poisoning. Why couldn't the cadet and the girl smell gas before it killed them? Why couldn't the people who entered the cabin while they were still alive smell gas either?

The coroner's jury might well have brought in a rider to its verdict censuring the gas company for failing to put a strong enough odorant in its gas. The jury's failure to bring in such a rider is surprising, to say the least.

The odorant in gas is supposed to be strong and offensive to anyone who has a sense of smell.

In this case, death was caused by a fairly low concentration of gas seeping into the room over a long period. The smell should still be detectable. In any concentration of gas sufficient to cause death or even illness, the odorant should be strong enough to make itself known to anyone, drunk or sober, without being mistaken for anything else but the odor of gas.

If it is scientifically possible to put such an odorant in gas—and I see no reason why it should not be—then the company is partly to blame for these two deaths.

If it is not possible to make lethal doses of gas perceptible to the nose, then the city should flatly outlaw all gas fixtures in rooms where people sleep, or even in adjoining rooms, unless there is an airtight partition.

Two cases of cheap behavior noticed yesterday: A pair of sailors read this newspaper free of charge at an "Honest John" self-serve newsstand on Douglas near Hillside. They took the paper apart, exchanged sections, pawed the paper over thoroughly, then bundled it together and put it back on the stand when their bus arrived.

They boarded the bus, extracting coins from wallets fairly well filled with money. No sight on sailors meant. I have seen prosperous civilian chasers do the same thing. If there is someone reading this who can't afford the price of a newspaper, I will be happy to take the poor fellow into a restaurant and buy him a bowl of hot-soup. (Offer expires at one minute past midnight.)

That was one case of cheap behavior. Here's another. Some Americans hit on a side-splitting comedy routine in a Victoria cafe yesterday. They beckoned to a waitress, asked if any crumpets were available. As soon as she repeated the word "crumpets," they burst into screams of laughter.

They drew the attention of several waitresses and went through the same bit of sparkling dialogue. Each time, the word "crumpets" was the punch-line that launched the visitors into their moronic cackle. They never ordered any crumpets. They had no intention of doing so.

Few visitors to Victoria are as ill-mannered as these.

Here is a nugget of information for people passing through: Victoria people are not really great crumpet-eaters. Thousands of Victorians while away their lives without ever seeing a crumpet.

If visitors want to eat crumpets, and fancy they are in England, that's all right with us. To eat crumpets and pay for them is acceptable. Just to sit there and laugh at them, though—that's anti-social behavior, sucker.

Strange Flower Brings Comment

Lone Green Upstart Upsets Petunia Bed

A green petunia in an otherwise normal petunia bed is causing considerable comment among the friends of the owner of this odd flower.

F. Taylor of 617 Admirals Road, a laboratory technician at the Naval Laboratory in the Esquimalt Dockyard, does not claim to be any kind of a gardener. "All I try to do is keep the yard looking neat and tidy," he said.

BOUGHT YOUNG PLANTS "I purchased the young plants at a local store. The rest of them turned out to be perfectly normal flowers, but this one turned out to have flowers, seven in number, with the same color and texture as the leaves," he said.

"If this petunia is something rare in the flower world, and any gardener wishes to have the plant, he is perfectly welcome to it," Mr. Taylor said.

The council heard reports that a laundry had declined to give time off. Council was told Wednesday night that the Elections Act requires that workers have three clear hours in which to vote.

The CCL council joined other congress councils in declining an invitation to attend a discussion on the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act.

The invitation was made by Labor Minister Lyle Wicks for August 28. Council here expressed opinions identical with those of other groups, noting the left-wing independent Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union has been invited and that the government already is aware of labor's likes for amendments to the ICA Act. Federally, the council will send word to Ottawa demanding a national health insurance act at the coming session of Parliament.

Macaulay Bend Opened Again

Macaulay Bend, on Esquimalt Road, Wednesday was reopened temporarily to traffic.

The bend has been under reconstruction by Esquimalt municipality to lessen danger of a curve.

Paving of the road is expected to be done later this year.

Victoria Beauty Likes Simplicity

A charming 18-year-old Victoria beauty is waiting both anxiously and apprehensively for the Pacific National Exhibition to be held in Vancouver August 26 to September 7.

She is Eleanor Anderson of 2500 Blackwood, Victoria's choice for the B.C. Products Fair title, who will represent the city in the Miss PNE beauty contest.

LETTER RECEIVED Miss Anderson has just received the customary letter from PNE officials regarding what clothes she is to wear, what hotel she will stay at and who will meet her in Vancouver.

She will arrive in Vancouver Sunday, August 30, and will stay at the Hotel Georgia.

Finalists have been informed to bring a wardrobe of their choice for street wear and social events but for the judging she must have a cotton dress, plain or figured, and a sports outfit consisting of white shorts and a "T" shirt.

Miss Anderson has been shopping in town for her "judging" clothes but has not been able to come across anything she likes. "Simplicity of style is the keynote," she said. She remarked that if she couldn't find anything she liked she would make her own outfit.

The girls will appear nightly in an outdoor theatre stage presentation in Vancouver where they will be introduced and speak briefly.

LOVELY GIFTS All finalists receive many lovely gifts on the night when "Miss PNE" is selected Wednesday, September 2.

The girls will be judged on four qualities. They are charm, personality and deportment, 30 per cent; beauty of face and figure, 30 per cent; ability to speak in public, 15 per cent; and general intelligence or special ability, 25 per cent.

TLC Condemns Laxity in Beer Parlors

New condemnation of beer parlors and government inspection was expressed Wednesday night at Victoria District Trades and Labor Council (AFL-TLC).

Council, on motion of John Aubrey, Retail Clerks' Union delegate, will write the provincial government about its views and ask tighter enforcement of laws concerning beer parlors.

RUN LIKE HOG TROUGHS

"Pubs still are run like hog troughs," declared Mr. Aubrey in noting that council submitted to the liquor inquiry committee a brief asking strict enforcement of laws in effect.

"I believe the inspectors are lax," he said. "There was a drive for a month but conditions have fallen back. Parlors aren't fit for decent people to enter."

"Council should tell the government it's not pleased with its present efforts in this regard. We aren't interested in cocktail bars," he added.

LIQUOR ACT CLAIMED FLAUNTED

Mr. Aubrey said that "virtually every clause of the liquor act, except that for closing time, is being open flouted."

Chairs are close together, tables are dirty, he said. On the men's side, beer parlors are like pig pens, declared another delegate.

Efforts to Gain Investigation Supported

Pearkes Backs TLC Oil Prices Stand

General G. R. Pearkes, V.C. MP-elect for Esquimalt-Saanich, told Victoria District Trades and Labor Council on Wednesday that he will support its efforts to gain an investigation into price policies of petroleum companies.

Council recently wrote to Justice Minister Stuart Garson asking for such an investigation, and also asked the provincial government to consider establishing a fuel control board.

Victoria city council has referred the labor group's request for support in the provincial field, to the business, trade and industry committee.

Chamber of Commerce will refer the support request to its directors.

BEARINGS SET Workmen's Compensation Board hearings in Victoria will be held September 14. Persons desirous of appearing before the board should notify it, or the labor council, of their intentions by September 7.

Edward Mallek and Charles Craig, Victoria Kiwanis Club members, appeared before the council Wednesday night, explaining No questions were asked.

A delegate to the B.C. Trades Union Congress (TLC) convention at Vancouver October 14 will be elected at next meeting.

NOTICE OF MOTION Notice of motion was given concerning a proposed special charge on unions for a delegates' fund. The proposed annual charge would be $7 for affiliated unions of 10 to 30 members; $12 for 31 to 100 members; $17 for 101 to 200 members; and $35 over 500 members.

Red Move on Korea Parley Opposed by Canada, U.S.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Canada and the United States Wednesday joined in rejecting a Russian proposal on the make-up of the vital Korean political conference and heard from Russia's Andrei Vishinsky some harsh words about American diplomacy and "cliques" which he said do not want peace.

UN Chiefs Demand Check On Communist Red Cross

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The United Nations command accused Communist Red Cross workers Wednesday of activities bordering on spying during the Korean war prisoner exchange and told the Reds to put a stop to it.

A spokesman, asked if these activities actually included spying, said "I wouldn't want to use that word."

The protest was made a few hours after the Reds freed 75 Americans, 75 Britons and 306 Koreans. The Reds promised to send back 60 Americans, 90 Britons and 300 Koreans today.

Today's group included the largest number of Britons returned since the exchange began.

Thursday's 450 boosted past the halfway mark—at 6,533—the number of Allied prisoners released of the 12,673 which the Reds listed for repatriation. The

Inquiry Asked On Slides At Whatshan

KAMLOOPS (CP)—The Kamloops and District Board of Trade has asked Premier Bennett for a royal commission to investigate two disastrous mudslides at the Whatshan power plant at Neelands.

Resolutions passed by the board Wednesday night called for the royal commission and also were highly critical of S. R. Weston, chairman of the B.C. Power Commission.

Two other resolutions called for an immediate and independent survey of the Whatshan mishaps by an independent firm and endorsement of a demand by city council that the B.C. government force the power commission to install at once a Diesel plant here to ensure adequate and continuous power services. The mudslides both occurred within the last two weeks.

Yard Escorts Irish Trio To Face Gun Theft Trial

BISHOP'S STORTFORD, England (Reuters)—Five armed Scotland Yard detectives escorted three Irishmen to a London jail Wednesday to await trial for allegedly stealing £2,143 worth of arms for the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

The police van carrying the handcuffed trio on the 30-mile trip from this sleepy market town to Brixton jail in London was preceded and followed at two-yard intervals by police cars.

Prosecutor M. J. Jardine said at a preliminary hearing here earlier that the men confessed to IRA membership and "capturing guns from the enemy" from an army cadet school near here. They were intended for underground IRA units in Ireland, he said.

The three men are Cathal Goulding, 31, a painter; Manus Canning, 27, also a painter; and Sean Stephenson, 25, a railroad worker. Goulding and Canning are from Northern Ireland. Stephenson is a Londoner with Irish parents.

They are also asking that the expiry date of the agreement be set down.

Royalist Coup in Iran Cheering Event for West

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

BY J. M. ROBERTS, JR. (AP News Analyst)

A royalist coup in Iran has been about the only thing Britain and the United States could think of recently which would keep that oil-laden land from falling into the hands of the Russians.

And it wasn't really expected. The two Western Allies have been handicapped by several factors:

1. They didn't want the Iranian oil for themselves any more. They only want to keep it away from Russia.

2. They had to abandon their efforts to support the Mossadegh government, in spite of his being their only hope for a long time against Russia, because they could no longer countenance his principle of expropriation lest it set fires in other Middle East oil lands.

3. Even if they had wanted to continue supporting Mossadegh, the time was arriving when economic support would have had to be augmented by military support. Mossadegh was in no position to handle mere munitions aid, even military missions, would merely have aggravated the extreme Iranian nationalists as well as being an invitation to Russia to occupy the northern part of the country.

4. There was no political power outside of Mossadegh to play footsie with the Communists.

Western observers were not surprised five days ago when the shah fled after an abortive attempt to designate a new premier. The surprise came Wednesday, when the royalists showed their strength.

During those hours when the success of the coup was being determined the big question was, "Where is the Tudeh (Communist) party?" It has been supporting Mossadegh openly since his final split with the West, but the entente was already reported to be wearing thin.

Were the Communists lying back hoping that the royalists and the nationalists would damage each other so badly that Moscow could handle the winner?

Fireworks in Iran

PREMIER Mohammed Mossadegh, the stormy petrel of Iran, would seem to have his hands full of trouble with a homemade label. Thrust and counter-thrust between the supporters of the Shah and the supporters of the Premier have now left the former on top, with the army in close support. Obviously events cannot rest where they are, with martial law, rioting, gunfire and conflicting rumors besetting the capital at Tehran. A military junta was reported in office yesterday, with the knowledge and assent of the Shah. This was a dramatic reversal from the day previous, when there were reports that the Iranian ruler had fled.

What all this means in the shifting balance of the Middle East remains to be seen. Military juntas either evolve into a dictatorship finally or else hand their authority back to one side or other in the initial dispute. Spain is an example of a military dictatorship which has lasted for some considerable time. The Naguib government of Egypt is too new yet to assess its eventual outcome, although the military coup there was powerful enough to dismiss the monarchy. In Morocco, under French protection, lesser ground swells of a somewhat similar nature have recently made themselves felt. Obviously something is stirring the Arab world, something which on the whole is by no means friendly to the west.

In Iran the most significant development in recent years has been the growth of its external trade with countries behind the iron curtain. Iran itself is listed today as one of the best customers of Soviet Russia, which twice had demonstrated with armed forces at its borders. Premier Mossadegh, the tearful leader as he has been called, no doubt was in the middle of considerable pressure and conflicting aims. At the moment he would seem to have been deposed, however events may turn in the next few days. If the ageing premier wanted action in response to his "dynamic" policies apparently he has got it, and rather more than was bargained for. This is civil war.

They Belong to Us All

WHEN he says that amalgamation of the municipal area of Greater Victoria is taking place piecemeal and warns against a continuation of this process rather than a proper administrative merger Mr. Forrest L. Shaw is on firm ground. Separate boards created to handle separate affairs, the school and water boards are instances he cites, take away authority from municipal councils and leave them only with the unpleasant duty of providing the money to run them. An extension of this drift, as he aptly terms it, could in the end leave councils with no say in matters rightfully within their province.

In mentioning that Victoria City foots the bill for many an amenity shared by the surrounding municipalities Mr. Shaw touches on a sore point so far as the city is concerned. Adjacent councils obviously are willing to ride on the city's back whenever they can do so without cost. The Arena is a conspicuous example, being built by the city but used freely by citizens of the whole Greater Victoria area, a circumstance not to the credit of councils which refused to help in its construction. The former city solicitor is not so happy in his reference to a serviceman's centre, however.

Mr. Shaw does not think such a project will ever eventuate, although one hopes he is as wrong about this as he is right in his warnings concerning piecemeal amalgamation. A serviceman's centre is not an ice arena, for instance, and the nature of its use is far different. The fact that the servicemen to be catered to in such a building are stationed at Gordon Head and Esquimalt is no criterion whatsoever. They are there not to serve these districts but to train in and defend this whole Greater Victoria area in an emergency, as part of the defense forces of the country. That being the case if the city could not exempt such a building from taxes then it would be an ungracious community indeed. The city would also be putting itself in exactly the position Mr. Shaw complains of in connection with lack of financial co-operation by the municipalities in sporting facilities.

In so far as the military services are concerned they belong to the entire combined community and their temporary places of residence are merely incidental to their duties. Nor must it be overlooked that much of the money they spend, perhaps even the most of it, is spent in the city itself. The whole area in fact benefits from their presence, in many more ways than one. This in itself is a good argument for the creation of a servicemen's centre, which could easily become a reality if all four municipal councils took the project thoroughly to heart.

Inflationary Credit Policy

IN their annual round-up of the Canadian business scene last winter several leading bank executives, including presidents and their general managers, drew attention to the inflationary effect of the credit policy the Dominion was following with regard to time sales of many commodities at the retail level. Such a course, they commented, was cumulative as well as inflationary, and could lead to undesirable results if the extension of credit sales carried too far. Not even the freest spending home buys a major household appliance more than once, depending on its useful lifetime. Borrowing to buy, also, is directly inflationary. So said the chartered bankers.

That was nine months ago. In the interval Mr. Abbott has declined many representations asking for a more balanced control of credit in Canada. As recently as a month ago the Dominion again gave a curt no to an influential group of merchandisers who questioned the extent to which the present policy was being helpful. The policy stood and there would be no change, they were told.

Meanwhile time and credit sales have continued across the country in greatly increased volume. Competition at the retail level has intensified, with more bonuses for the credit buyers, lower down-payments and more selling pressure. Booming credit sales have been the result in a large range of goods in general home use.

What the bankers warned against, the cumulative effects of a self-inflationary credit policy, have begun now to concern the more thoughtful of the distributors. Time sales cannot be repeated to the same purchasers until their contracts have been completed, and that again takes time. The disposal of merchandise units worth perhaps several hundreds of dollars on time sales through a multiplicity of competing outlets can exhaust the public's credit to the extent where future business would be sharply affected. This summer saw the credit boom across Canada redoubled. Can it continue without over-selling the market with serious consequences to retail markets in general? That is question the administration has not answered.

LEAGUE OF ROSES

Sir,—May I be permitted to express my thanks to the many who helped to make Lancashire and Yorkshire Week the success it was. First I extend thanks to all the fine artists who entertained our California and local members at the various halls; also to the B.C. Electric Railway Company for sponsoring the fine concert on our behalf in Beacon Hill Park; and to Macdonald's for sponsoring our program over "Housewives Holiday."

Mention must also be made of the excellent and hard work put in by the ladies who worked on refreshments. The Californians who came from Los Angeles and San Francisco have already expressed their thanks, in your columns, for the wonderful time they had in Victoria, and have indicated that greater numbers will be here next August. I may mention that our visitors presented a lovely mantle chiming clock to my wife and self, as appreciation. Something we will treasure for all time.

TALLYHOS AND GUIDES

Sir,—Now that the tallyho season is at its height, it is to be hoped that many of our visitors will avail themselves of this comfortable way of sightseeing. It is also to be hoped that the vehicles are provided with a guide who can correctly inform the patrons about our objects of interest.

I recently witnessed a very amusing incident. I was passing the Sir James Douglas School, in the Fairfield District. The name is shown in large letters on the front of the building, which is surrounded by a gravelled yard. A car drew up and two ladies alighted. One said, "So this is Sir James Douglas' residence!" Her companion replied, "I suppose so." "Well," said the first speaker, "he does not spend much on the grounds."

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sailing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

THE evidence may seem to be to the contrary but I have long held the conviction that columnists, like authors, would be wise to keep their likenesses out of sight. The advantage of photographic obscurity is of course obvious.

For one thing he, the columnist, assuming that his typewriter does not betray him, can benefit from the mystery of the unknown. He can, perhaps, work up a reputation for wit or wisdom that derives in the main from being invisible. A voice unencumbered by a face has a certain mystique about it, as radio listeners know quite well.

A shaft from the dark is intriguing. Dispel this mystery and the pundit is laid bare, as some authors and I daresay many a columnist has found out. Faces being quite frequently what they are, there is an open invitation in such exposure to have someone mutter: "How dreadful. That man can't possibly say these things. He must have a (better looking) ghost writer."

I have run up against this reaction myself, not precisely in these terms perhaps but in a way that leaves me wondering. On occasion when I have been introduced to someone he or she will remark: "Oh, yes, I see your face every morning," and I am never quite sure what is meant.

So much can be implied by so little inflexion.

Reading this you might with warrant retort: "Why, then, do you adorn your column with a picture," to which all I could reply would be that columnists, like ladies and their hemlines, are the slaves of fashion. It is the fashion, apparently, or so it has been impressed on me, to have a small likeness reproduced at the head of one's morning causerie.

And the law is of the Medes and the Persians. Unlike ladies' hemlines, however, a columnist's face stays put. That is to say he is like a fictional detective, he never grows old. The years may come and go, his views may change or contradict each other, but his face remains the same forever. Or nearly so.

It would be better, no doubt, were it otherwise.

The shock to one's readers when at length the masque cannot be retained longer is apt to be devastating. Indeed this thought quite appeals me, even though I run no immediate risk (I hope) of a forced photographic transmigration.

In New York, on the other hand, the readers of one newspaper are being compelled to readjust their reactions consequent on a new picture at the head of a favorite column. One Frank Kingdom, who for six years displayed himself as but slightly bald and wholly clean-shaven, followed the bent of his Christian name and appeared suddenly as he really is, wholly bald, wholly bearded—and much older.

Happier he would be, surely, had he never showed his picture at all. You see, then, the fate that awaits all those likenesses at the heads of columns. If I were to be frank also I would have to admit that what you see above was taken all of three years ago, although in defense of my duplicity I offer the assurance of friends who say: "But in reality you look younger."

But they, alas, are my friends.

"But, M'sieur, I AM following the government!"

Gerald Waring

Reports from Ottawa

EVERY time an aircraft crashes in a built-up area—which fortunately isn't often—the authorities here take another look at the problem of how to protect the community from airplanes shutting in and out of nearby airports.

There was a tragic illustration of the problem last week when an air force jet crashed into two houses near Montreal and killed nine people. The same thing could happen to any of thousands of homes right across the country which are built too close to air fields for anyone's comfort.

Of course, the chances of an airplane hitting any particular house are almost infinitesimally small. That's about the only consolation for those people who can look out their kitchen windows to an airport fence anywhere from a few feet to a few thousand feet away.

Especially if they're aware of the statistics on aircraft crashes. Sixty per cent of all crashes in the United States last year took place when the planes were either landing or climbing after takeoff.

I discussed the problem with the government's director of air services, A. T. Cowley, a retired RCAF air vice marshal. It's the responsibility of his office to find a solution if there is one. "It's one of our chief troubles," he told me. "People want airports near the cities, for convenience's sake. Then the communities expand, and first thing we know the cities have engulfed the airports."

On the other hand, he explained, if airports are established away from the cities they serve—like Pat Bay, 18 miles from Victoria, and Malton, outside Toronto—new communities tend to grow up around them.

People near airports complain chiefly about the noise. But when an accident happens like that near Montreal, or the three in a row at Elizabeth, N.J., two years ago, they become alarmed and agitate to have the airport closed.

At Hamilton the solution was to close the municipal airport and move operations to a former air force base away from the city. And it's just been announced that Barker Field in Toronto, which also is surrounded by homes, is to be cut up and sold for building lots.

But there are exceptions. The Edmonton airport, one of the busiest in the country, is hemmed in by homes, and there have been a couple of near misses there. Cartierville airport, near Montreal, where new Sabre jets are test flown, is another hazard area. The federal authorities intend to zone land adjacent to airports, as they've done already at Cartierville and Dorval airports. But all such zoning amounts to is limitation of the height of structures so they won't be a hazard to aircraft. Any action by zoning or otherwise to restrain people from building homes near airports has been left to the municipalities—and they've done little more than acknowledge that the problem exists.

It may be, as the authorities here suggest, that there's really no practicable solution to the problem, and that if people insist on building near airports the risk is theirs. But at least efforts should be made to dissuade them—as the RCAF did when it persuaded a school board not to locate a new school in the line of approach to an air force base.

Happy Libya

(From The New York Herald-Tribune)

THE happiest nations have no history, someone has said, and, things being what they are in Libya, someone else may well say that the happiest governments have no filing cabinets. A point 4 official has just returned from Libya with the astonishing news that the Libyan prime minister has no filing cabinets, that his assistants don't know how to write office memos, that his secretaries don't know how to draft official letters and probably that his clerks don't have erasers on their pencils. The point 4 man told congress that steps were being taken to correct these conditions and that Libya would soon be on the road to better things.

Well, we don't know whether this is such a good idea or not. Office memos lead to carbon paper, carbon paper to paper clips, paper clips to thumbtacks, thumbtacks to bulletin boards, bulletin boards to proclamations and proclamations to trouble. If the Libyans have got along all these centuries without filing cabinets, they might well think twice before installing them. Maybe they have nothing to file. One thing is certain—no filing cabinet will long stand empty. Once it is installed it fills, as if by magic, with bills, mortgages, tax statements, unwanted invitations, unanswered letters, unfinished work. And one filing cabinet leads to another. Perhaps this is a case where we should study, rather than teach, a backward nation. All that a good office really needs is one large wastebasket. That way lies contentment.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

A FRIEND of mine who is not quite right in the head stuck his hand out the screen door of the cottage the other night, when the mosquitoes were fairly swarming. He explained that he wanted a mosquito to bite him on the palm of his hand so that it would itch.

"An itchy palm," he said, "means you are going to receive money."

Knowing his deep respect for all superstitions, I could not help but point out to him that it was hardly fair to induce an itchy palm by such trickery. But he is deeply versed in the subject.

"These superstitions," he said, withdrawing his hand from outside the door and starting to scratch it enthusiastically, "have been handed down from generations of our ancestors. They include not only folk lore but witchcraft. The text of this superstition is: 'An itchy palm means you are going to receive money.' It does not go into any ifs, ands or buts. It makes no reservations. There is nothing in the text of it to suggest that you have to come by an itchy palm accidentally, or from causes outside your command." I have often dropped a fork deliberately, in order to make a lady call at our house. If I want a man visitor, for example, if I am lonesome and want male company instead of some gossip female, I drop a knife. It works every time, as any true believer in superstition will readily confirm."

He showed me his palm, on which a mosquito bite shone small, round and white, with a red aura from his scratching.

"That is big dough," he declared. Yesterday, I am sorry to say, he received a check for $2,000 from his mother's sister in Tennessee, a wealthy old lady, who said that she had had a queer hunch he needed money, and hoped this would be of use to him.

Laplanders

By FRED MANOR

North American Newspaper Alliance

HELINKI.—This is a story of the Lapps, the last pastoral nomads in Europe, whose livelihood today largely depends on purchases of reindeer meat.

To the Lapps living along its banks, the Teno River is the only link with the outside world. But, broadly majestic though it is, it remains only a tenuous link.

When the summer is too dry, it becomes shallow and cannot be navigated even by light craft. In the autumn, when it freezes, but the ice still is too thin to carry traffic, or during the spring thaws, when the ice breaks, Lapland's farms may remain cut off from the rest of the world for three to four weeks.

Even when communications are normal, the outside world has little to offer. The nearest doctor is 150 miles distant. A girl is suffering agonies of toothache, which could not be cured, because the dentist was away on a month's holiday. When he comes back, it will take her three days to travel by boat and bus to reach his waiting room.

The farms are built on the river's high bank. Down near the shore, the farmers keep crudely fashioned mail boxes. Each has a neat little flag; when the flag is upright, it means that mail is inside, awaiting collection.

I traveled up the Teno in a narrow, canoe-like boat that was fitted with an outboard engine and carried Finnish mail; at every mail box the boatman would stop—and sometimes we would be asked in to a farm to warm ourselves in the kitchen.

There the huge tile stoves were pleasantly hot—this was midsummer—and there always would be steaming hot coffee and salmon. Smoked salmon, salted salmon, boiled salmon, fried salmon; pink, fresh, tasty, served in quantities. To be followed by the Finnish white cake, the inevitable pulla.

The farmers plant whatever may grow in this barren soil 200 miles north of the Arctic Circle. Mostly it is fodder to keep a few cows throughout the winter. But the peoples' livelihood is based on reindeer.

Each Lapp family marks its reindeer with a distinctive brand cut in the animals' ears. In November the reindeer are driven into corrals, sorted out according to owners. A few reindeer are tamed for domestic use, but most of them remain half-wild, roaming the land in search of moss.

Till now, however, only the fringe of civilization has touched this land. The farmers still wear their national costume as a matter of course—black tunic with a broad, red hem along the shoulders, collar and sleeves, black, tight trousers, gaiters tufted with straw, moccasins, and a huge red and blue hat. Women wear a red cap tied over the chin, and retain this distinctive headgear even when dressed in a "modern" cotton dress.

Worthwhile Projects of SPCA Deserving of Visit Wednesday

BY B. ROBERT MAGGS

On Wednesday, August 26, the SPCA will hold open house starting at 2:30 at the shelter, 111 Wilson Street. Tea will be served. There will be a home-cooking table, a white elephant stall and the Dog Obedience Club will give a demonstration of how a well-behaved or well-trained dog should act.

Wednesday afternoon is a good time to hold the open house. All stores downtown are closed and quite a number of people have the afternoon off.

There are a great number of people who are interested in animal welfare who have never visited the SPCA shelter. They keep promising themselves that "someday" they will take time out to visit their local shelter but for some reason or another they never get around to it.

There are a great number of people who are interested in animal welfare who have never visited the SPCA shelter. They keep promising themselves that "someday" they will take time out to visit their local shelter but for some reason or another they never get around to it.

A PADRE IN PRINT

BY REV. WILLIAM HILLS

The growing frequency of "Navy Days" across Canada shows that this hitherto silent service is finding its voice. And about time, too. Reticence is an admirable trait in human beings under certain circumstances. The navy, however, is one of the three principal national stifles against unprovoked aggression and attack. It is not a private yachting squadron. It belongs to the people of Canada.

I have a feeling that the more we know about the navy—the more we grow accustomed to enter by invitation dockyards and shore establishments without feeling the gasp of breath being down our necks—so much the more will the ordinary citizen take into his home and his heart the men in blue.

One of the reasons why some members of the RCN experience a distinct social chill in Victoria is because their service remains a stranger to the community.

There is no reason at all in this time of peace why the activities and interests of HMC Dockyard and HMCS Naden should not earn the genial attention and warm support of Joe Public.

All too often, our attention is caught by naval (and printer) mishaps on our streets and in our newspapers. This is made all the more conspicuous by the high regard the civilian has for the Queen's uniform. But we must not allow the peccadilloes of the few to blacken the many.

Perhaps the measured tread of a smartly turned-out shore patrol on our sidewalks would suffice to cool the ardor of the matelot who, smelling the cork of the bottle, feels like Captain Blood.

And here let us say a good word for the naval chaplain. I can remember that when I was attached to HMCS Cornwallis in Halifax in 1942, a small booklet setting out a seaman's "Ten Commandments" was published and put in the hands of each new entry.

It was an attempt, by means of pithy comment and apt illustration, to make life bearable for the citizen-sailor. The last commandment held out this sage advice: "Take your troubles to the Padre."

Of course, in the early days of the war, at any rate, the chaplain found himself stuck to a desk pouring over the boys' mail, welding a safety razor blade in one hand and a "Passed by Censor" stamp in the other. I think that that is why, even now, I find it difficult to enthuse over writing a letter.

Then, again, the padre often found himself called upon to provide a religious after-glow to the commanding officer's Sunday inspection.

Many were the occasions when I faced a hostile parade of men at Sunday Divisions after station cards had been picked up by regulating petty officers, at the captain's request, because of long hair, dirty dummies, frayed tapes, and other misadventures in dress and person. It was hard to inculcate the love of God or of any one else under those conditions.

But as time went on, discerning officers came to see that the unique position of the naval chaplain made him a tower of strength to the morale of the ship's company.

CALCUTTA (AP)—For burning effigies of U.S. State Secretary Dulles in a public park last May when he was visiting India, two Bengali "Sahitiks" were fined 25 rupees ($5.25) Wednesday by a city magistrate. The alternative was 10 days in jail. Both will appeal.

Edrich Hero of Day As Australia Beaten; All England Rejoices

LONDON (Reuters).—Denis Compton swept a ball to the boundary at the Oval Wednesday to return the mythical "Ashes" to England from Australia for the first time in 19 years.

Compton's stroke ended the cricket Test match in 3½ days instead of the allotted six, with England one run and eight wickets ahead of Australia.

The final score for the fifth Test read: Australia, 275 and 162; England, 306 and 132 for two wickets.

Hero of the day was Bill Edrich, who hit 55 not out against every trick the Australian bowlers could muster to dismiss England before scoring the 94 runs needed in the morning.

HUTTON LOST
At close of play Tuesday night, England had 38 runs for the loss of team captain Len Hutton.

A great hush settled over 25,000 spectators packing the oval cricket ground as Ray Lindwall opened Australia's attack Wednesday morning, but Edrich and his partner, Peter May, stood firm before the first fury of Australia's last-ditch bid to save the game.

After 90 minutes, they had scored 46 runs and England needed 48 more. Then May was caught by Alan Davidson off a ball by Keith Miller. He had been at the wicket 112 minutes.

COMPTON ENTERS
Edrich was joined by Compton, who was soon off the mark with two runs. He pushed the score stood at 101. England had scored 63 runs for the loss of May and needed 31.

Australia's Bill Johnston was taken off after play resumed. He had bowled for 160 minutes—probably his last spell with the ball in Test cricket. The crowd cheered him for three minutes.

Lindsay Hassett, Australian captain, then put himself on to bowl, but the end was near—only five runs needed.

The crowd roared for a six. Edrich was nearly out trying to oblige. But he took a single from Arthur Morris. Then Compton followed with a boundary to end the last match of the series with an eight-wicket victory for England.

HEADLINES REJOICE
Newspaper headline writers pulled out their superlatives to hail the victory.

"This happy England," sighed the London Evening News in a six-column banner line. "We've won," roared its rival, the Standard. Other news was virtually ignored as England regained the "Ashes."

The 30,000 fans who watched the white-flannelled batsman knock the winning run swarmed onto the grounds in jubilation. Hats and umbrellas were tossed in the air.

Millions more watched on TV or listened to radio accounts as the BBC jettisoned other programs for cricket. For those less fortunate the news was passed by word of mouth.

Strangers actually parted with British reserve to speak to one another on the street and relay the glad tidings.

OBITUARY WRITTEN
After Australia beat England for the first time, gloom was so intense that a sport writer published a mock obituary of English cricket, "whose body would be cremated and the ashes taken to Australia."

A few years later England redeemed herself and beat Australia at Melbourne. Some local ladies burned the wooden stumps after their country's defeat, placed them in an urn and presented them to the English team.

They are kept at Lord's, headquarters of English cricket, no matter who wins the Test. And ever since the contest has been popularly known as "the Ashes."

Golf--- Here's How

BY SAM SNEAD

As you start your downswing on that sort of everything-together movement your left arm must be straight not bent. The straight left arm is the spoke in the wheel. It guides club head smoothly, accurately into the ball. And think of swinging your club down—not out and around. Your shoulder and hip pivot supply the out-and-around action. With that straight left arm you'll have no topped shots. This left shoulder down-pull hunch helps golfers quit trying to figure out tricks for their hips and feet to do. And here's a closing thought: When your chin is almost against your left shoulder at the top of your swing you've done an important thing right.

Defending champion Bob Hunt will be among the starters when the field tees off in the annual Uplands Golf Club junior championship Sunday, August 23, at Uplands.

margin in a 6-4 victory over the Athletics. Gus Zernial hit two homers for the A's to give him a league leading total of 31 while Ed Robinson got one for the losers. Ellis Kinder, making his 56th relief appearance, retired 10 batters in a row to gain his ninth victory.

TIGERS TOP INDIANS
Detroit topped the Indians, 4-2, and dropped them to within three percentage points of the fourth-place Red Sox as Billy Hoelt scattered 11 hits and won his eighth game. Bob Nleman hit a two-run homer to put Detroit in front for good.

In a pair of National League night games, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Philadelphia Phils, 5-3, and the Chicago Cubs downed the St. Louis Cards by the same score.

The Pirates broke their four-game losing streak at the expense of Lefty Curt Simmons, who was hammered for five runs and 11 hits in eight innings as he suffered his 11th loss against 10 wins.

The Cubs got what proved to be the winning run when Dick Schofield of the Cards booted Clyde McCullough's grounder with the bases loaded in the sixth inning.

Uncle Wiggly Story - - By Howard Gars

GRANNIES SECRET
The Lady Mouse Teacher of Hollow Tree School and all her boy and girl pupils aboard Uncle Wiggly's Amusement Raft in Frog Pond were very much excited one day. Uncle Wiggly's raft was sailing toward Puppy Dog Island to put back King Bozo on his throne.
Bozo, King of the Dogs, had been put off his island because he could not remember where he buried the bones he loved to gnaw. King Bozo used to make the other dogs look for his hidden bones and the other dogs didn't like this work. So they deposed King Bozo. That is why they put him off his island and took away his crown and set him adrift in a small boat.
Uncle Wiggly took King Bozo aboard the raft. After delivering Queen Buttercup to her throne on Pussycat Island, Mr. Longears and Bosun, the old sea dog, headed the raft toward Puppy Dog Island.
But what excited the Lady Mouse Teacher of Hollow Tree School and her pupils, and what also excited Uncle Wiggly was the way Pat Butter, the grocery store goat, was acting. Mr. Butter was standing on the port, or left, side of the raft, and was looking through a hole in a big slice of Swiss cheese.
"Pat Butter, what in the world are you doing?" asked Uncle Wiggly.
The queer, jolly old goat gentleman took another long look through the hole in the Swiss cheese and replied.
"Interesting. Study family affairs as they relate to resources."
October 23 to November 21 (Scorpio)—Serious studies, conferences to elders and practical affairs; be punctual.
November 22 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—Depend on knowledge, discussion with loved ones or advisors if money moves are contemplated. Watch the time element.
December 22 to January 19 (Capricorn)—Go slow, be patient and punctual this morning. Your intellect and charm can help you deal with developments. Make work interests paramount.
January 20 to February 18 (Aquarius)—Look for information on ways and means to solve problems, overcome real or imagined obstacles, limitations, inhibitions.
February 19 to March 20 (Pisces)—New and old friendships accepted here. Be patient with acquaintances this morning; they may need a pleasant word or lift.
Planning ahead—Good for sociability, entertainment, etc.; August 20, 25.

"I am looking for Puppy Dog Island, Wiggly. You want to land King Bozo on his island, don't you, Wiggly?"
"Of course we do, Pat!" answered the rabbit gentleman.
"Avast and belay, Cap'n Wiggly, sir!" whispered Bosun. "We can't land King Bozo on his island any too soon to suit me! Listen to him!"
It was plain easy to listen to King Bozo. The Dog King, high up on a pile of pillows on his temporary throne, which was the back of the flying dragon in Uncle Wiggly's Merry-Go-Round, was barking loudly.
"What ho! What ho!" barked King Bozo. "Turnout all my dog soldiers and have them hunt bones for me! I am hungry!"
"But Your Majesty Royal Highness," said Uncle Wiggly kindly, "if you make your soldiers hunt bones again, they will not let you land back on your island. You can't get back on your throne."
"That's right, I guess I can't," admitted King Bozo. "What had I better do, Uncle Wiggly?"
"Your Majesty had better remember where you hide your bones so that you can dig them up yourself," replied the rabbit uncle. "Then your soldiers and subjects will welcome you back to your island."
"You are right, Uncle Wiggly," barked the Dog King. "But I have such a poor memory that I never can find a bone once I have hidden it in the ground. What can I do?"
"I could give him some memory lessons, just as I often give lessons to my pupils in Hollow Tree School," said Miss Mouse, timidly.
"That will be fine!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggly. "Please come down off your dragon throne, King Bozo, and Miss Mouse will teach you how to look for the bones you hid."
"The hole in this piece of Swiss cheese is as good as a telescope," bleated Mr. Butter. "I shall soon sight Puppy Dog Island. Go on with your memory lessons, King Bozo."
"Come with me and I will teach you," offered Miss Mouse. But, before the teacher could start the lessons, all of a sudden Uncle Wiggly saw coming toward the raft a small boat in which sat a little old pussy cat lady.
"Please take me aboard your raft, Uncle Wiggly!" Mewed the little old pussy cat lady. "I am Grannie Gruntly and I have a secret."
And in the next story I will tell you more about Grannie Gruntly's secret if the bottle of ketchup doesn't put red spots on the marshmallow candies to make believe they have the mummies.

Shortage of Teachers Causing Some Concern

NANAIMO Within three or four years 50 per cent of British Columbia high school teachers will hold temporary certificates. An alarming teacher shortage is evident, Inspector Claude Campbell told the trustees of School District No. 68 here Wednesday.

Due to the prospect of meeting the demand of required teachers, the inspector added that increasing population 1,500 teachers are required annually and the normal school turn out only 700, leaving an annual deficit of 800. Every means was being taken to recruit teachers, he said.

Commenting on a conference of 15 inspectors in Victoria, he said 5,500 were enrolled in the course for New Canadians in the correspondence schools conducted by the department and 600 in the secondary school level for New Canadians.

UNIFORM CLOSING DATE
He informed the trustees a directive would be coming from the department for a uniform opening and closing date for all schools of British Columbia.

Some graduation ceremonies have become quite "fantasy," said the inspector, quelling comments from the conference. A possible result would be that school boards would refuse responsibility for activities after 11 p.m. Cases had been heard of all night celebrations which ended with early morning breakfast parties. Such events would be the responsibility of parents, he said.

The board accepted six resignations and appointed 10 new teachers, including two temporary teachers. Total of teachers 1,500.

Greece Looking for Help With Big Rebuilding Task

OTTAWA (BUP) — The Greek government looked hopefully to the Canadian people and their government Wednesday for help in rebuilding earthquake victims, while a Greek earthquake relief fund was organized in Toronto.

Greek Ambassador Raoul Tziannopoulos said a Greek earthquake relief fund would be organized in Toronto. He announced that Greek communities across the country were gathering money to help some 120,000 persons left homeless by quakes and subsequent fires on the western Greek islands.

Union, Mine Clear Decks For Walkout

NORANDA, Que. (BUP) — The Noranda mines and the United Steelworkers' Union lined up their ammunition Wednesday night for a strike over union security, scheduled for midnight Thursday.

Sixteen hundred workers were ready to walk off the job shuttling down Canada's largest producer of copper and one of its largest sources of gold. Most of them were already signed up for strike benefits.

The company, which held out for 82 days before it defeated the last strike in 1947, was reported to be planning to shut down its Noranda mines and to keep some employees working in staff houses on an "as-needed" basis.

President J. Y. Murdoch said the company was ready to grant wage increases, although he didn't specify whether it would meet the 22-cent an hour cost-of-living increase. But he pointed out that the majority report of a consultation board had recommended a 10-cent increase and he would never agree to it.

NEW YORK (AP) — Otto Harbach, composer and lyricist, was honored on his 80th birthday Tuesday night at a banquet here by the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers. Harbach, former president of ASCAP, is the author of such popular hits as "Indian Love Call," "Garden of Eden," "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" and "Yesterday."

Total of Casualties Estimated by U.S.

WASHINGTON (BUP) — The United States put a toll of 142,277 casualties, including 25,000 dead in the three-year Korean war, the defense department reported Wednesday.

The department's "preliminary total" for the conflict included 25,000 dead, 103,192 wounded, 8,529 missing, 2,431 captured, and 2,431 previously reported captured or missing but since returned to military duty.

The total, a decrease of 17 from last week's report, was the last regular weekly one to be issued. A spokesman said it will take at least a year to prepare an "official" list, but it is not expected to vary much from Wednesday's figure.

The toll compared with 364,000 American battle casualties in the First World War and 1,113,691 in the Second World War. The defense department said about half of these suffered by the preliminary total reflects Red Chinese.

With the hair-legged season your legs are to razor it off. Do it as soon as you can. It is often necessary to pre-shave for a day or two before the actual shaving. Right sunlight on the back, but too when you shave that and sheer time when it has to be removed some top skin patches and to prevent a flake of skin from coming off, it is always a good idea to use a good quality shaving cream. LOOK FOR LABEL

With the welter of synthetic fibers and mixtures containing synthetics on the market today it is no wonder the average shopper is confused. To be safe in handling your new synthetics, look for the manufacturer's label on the garment. Usually it will give the fiber content of the fabric and instructions in care. If there is no label, ask the salesperson for this information.

Oak Bay Goblins Assure Four-Team Football Loop

Oak Bay was admitted to the 21 years. However, no player from Oak Bay has been in what league officials consider a higher classification, and will be allowed to play in the loop.

With interest building up over the Vancouver entry in the 1954-55 season, the league officials are expected to announce the league's first season, which will be the first time the league has been organized.

Winning Contract

North's psychic one heart bid was intended to prepare the way for a 50 trump contract if South bid spades; but it wasn't as risky as it seems.

Suppose South has good heart support and gets excited about playing the hand in hearts. That means he must have at least four hearts. If he had four hearts in a hand of only medium strength, probably he'd bid the hearts first in order to avoid a reverse bid later on.

If he was strong enough to reverse—however—then North didn't have to worry too much about playing with only a three-card trump suit in his own hand.

The psychic worked well in that it disclosed a good fit; however, it discouraged North-South to get a little too high, and it also gave East a chance to double and call for a heart opening.

The double of a slam bid calls for an unusual lead; most often it demands the suit first bid by the dummy.

The purpose of the double is not so much to increase the profit of setting the hand, but to increase the chance of setting it by getting the right lead.

West failed to obey orders. He thought that East's double might be based on a void in spades, so he decided to lead the spade ace first and have all right if he had continued the spades and given East a ruff.

A sure thing if South's spade bid was honest. But East's singleton spade happened to be the two, and that "stop" card made West a little panicky.

Open Air Program of Boxing Enjoyed by Fans at Langford

LANGFORD—The first open-air program of the newly formed Langford Boxing Club was staged recently. The ring was set up in the car lot next to the Langford firehall.

There were nine bouts, starting with novice boxers and concluding with the main bout between the ex-Golden Gloves champion of Finland, Aaro Manninen, and Harry Smith of the Langford Club.

It was Queen Victoria who gave the baby carriage its respectability. She bought three back in 1850 and promptly silenced the new invention's many detractors, who believed it would "break up the home".

Vinegar Useful in Kitchen

MONTREAL (UPI)—There are many uses for vinegar in the kitchen, and here are some very helpful ones—for busy homemakers.

When a smoked ham has to be stored in the refrigerator for any length of time, you can keep it from molding by rubbing it at the ends with cider vinegar. Wipe off with a clean, damp cloth when you are ready to use the ham.

The sweet, spicy vinegar solution left over from a jar of pickles makes a fine liquid to pour over a ham while it's roasting. This same spiced vinegar can be jellied by dissolving a half tablespoon of gelatin in a cup of vinegar and letting it set. The jelly is delicious when sliced and served with either hot or cold ham.

There are more uses for vinegar—to keep jam from fermenting, put a piece of white paper soaked in vinegar over the filled jar. Then seal it with the regular top as usual.

Mold can be prevented from forming on your favorite cheese by wrapping a clean cloth saturated with vinegar around it.

To keep fish fresh, sprinkle it with salt, then wrap it in a clean white cloth that has been wrung out of white vinegar. Rinse under cold water before cooking.

U.S. Plant In Production

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP)—The Aluminum Company of America plant here reported Tuesday that it now is producing ingots for aluminum sheeting.

The first ingot, produced Monday, weighed 2,200 pounds and was 66 inches long, 30 inches wide and one foot thick.

The first castings are experimental, company officials said. The ingots are being shipped to Alcoa's Vernon, Calif., plant for further processing.

Convention Of Forsters Well Attended

The Ancient Order of Foresters, British Columbia District, held its annual convention in the Orange Hall, 725 Courtney Street, on August 17 and 18.

Delegates from Fernie, Nanaimo, Vancouver, New Westminster, Wellington and the three courts of Victoria attended the meeting. J. E. L. Muir of Nanaimo, District Chief Ranger, was the presiding officer.

During the convention election and installation of officers was held, and much important business completed.

Vaccine for Polio Being Developed

DENVER (AP)—A New York specialist said here Tuesday that a vaccine to prevent infantile paralysis will be available at a reasonable cost within three to five years.

Dr. Herald R. Cox, director of virus research at Lederle Laboratories at Pearl River, N.Y., said the polio vaccine can be grown on a chick embryo but that it will require some time before it would be generally available.

Dr. Cox said the vaccine would be available at a reasonable cost within three to five years.

Did you know, too, that if you pour white vinegar over a fresh fish, the scales will come off much easier? And then, you can take the salt out of salted fish easily if you add a bit of white vinegar to the water in which you soak the fish.

RUSSIA EXPLODES H-BOMB; SAYS 'NO CAUSE FOR ALARM'

Thousands of Victorians Take Look at Navy

The Fairmile 724 served as a sightseeing vessel Wednesday afternoon during Navy Day. It made tours of Esquimalt Harbor every 45 minutes.

Mossadegh Booted Out By Followers of Shah

TEHRAN (AP)—Forces loyal to the absent monarch swept iron-willed Premier Mohammed Mossadegh out of power with a bloody and violent nine-hour coup Wednesday.

At least 300 persons were killed and Mossadegh's chief henchman was reported torn to pieces.

The young Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, a fugitive in Rome, said he would fly back at once to reclaim his throne. Mossadegh had forced him to flee Sunday.

The aged premier himself fled from his bed in a Hitler-type bunker from which he has ruled this country with tears and an iron fist for almost three years.

Mossadegh's present whereabouts were unknown. Mobs pillaged his fortress home and peddled his furniture in the bazaars for souvenirs.

The uprising was led by Major General Fazollah Zahedi, whom the shah named as premier Sunday, before he left the country in his private plane with Queen Soraya.

Infuriated mobs tore to pieces Col. Ezzatollah Momtaz, who betrayed last Sunday's abortive royalist uprising to Mossadegh's henchmen.

Jail doors were opened and Mossadegh's No. 1 lieutenant, Hussein Fattahi, who only Tuesday night threatened to hang the shah, was also reported torn to pieces by mobs. Fattahi was violently anti-British, disliked Americans and was considered the unyielding strong man behind Mossadegh.

Zahedi was reported to have taken refuge among wild, pro-shah tribesmen in remote Azarbaijan after Sunday's fiasco. He emerged to take over the country.

The new regime called on the shah to return from Rome and take the reins.

Jubilant Ruler Plans Return

ROME (AP)—The handsome young shah of Iran, a forlorn fugitive monarch 24 hours ago, made plans jubilantly Wednesday night to fly back to his throne in Tehran.

He hoped to charter a plane overnight and take off Thursday for the return to his country, whence he fled in great haste Sunday.

The shah said in a private interview he wanted to go back at once "to halt bloodshed and restore order in Iran under the monarchy." Tehran dispatches said order had been restored in

MLA Faces Denial Of Session Leave

Victoria MLA Perry Wright may be denied leave of absence by the city for the fall session of the legislature, city officials indicated Wednesday.

Mr. Wright is assistant city clerk. He applied to City Manager Cecil Wyatt for leave without pay so he could take his newly-won seat in the provincial government.

Mayor Claude Harrison said Wednesday that city council had no power to grant such a leave.

"There is no provision in the Municipal Act to allow it," said the mayor. "We must live within the bounds of the act." The mayor indicated that Mr. Wright's only course was either to resign from his job or resign his seat.

A Social Credit candidate in the Victoria riding, Mr. Wright won his seat by a large majority along with two other Socialists, Mrs. Lydia Arsen and W. N. Chant.

Mr. Wright has had no official reply to his application from the manager. Mr. Wyatt asked City Clerk Frank Hunter, Mr. Wright's immediate superior, for a recommendation. Mr. Hunter recommended that

1. Free health service for all.
2. Mechanization of agriculture.
3. Road construction.
4. Insurance of public security.
5. Protection of individual and social freedom.
6. Promotion of co-operative societies.
7. Long live Mohammed Shah Reza Pahlavi.

As furious battles raged in the streets of Tehran, radio became the only means of communication. Cable and telephone service overseas was cut off.

It was an hour of blazing triumph for the 33-year-old ruler who fled by plane as Mossadegh's tank troops seized the palace Sunday.

But, tempering his enthusiasm with caution, the shah waited by a radio tuned to Tehran and inquired repeatedly for telegrams or messages that might bring later news.

Pacing his hotel suite, the shah, Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, beamed joyously over the reports.

Reports to U.S. Confirm Claim

No Special Prominence Given to Announcement

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Russia announced Thursday that she recently tested an experimental hydrogen bomb "of great strength." But she told the Western world that this should be no cause for alarm.

The news was announced by Pravda, official Soviet Communist party newspaper, a little less than two weeks after Prime Minister Malenkov told the Supreme Soviet that the "United States no longer has a monopoly of the hydrogen bomb."

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission confirmed that it had information of a Soviet test explosion August 12, believed to involve "both fission and thermonuclear reactions"—the latter the term scientists use to describe a hydrogen explosion. The statement added, presumably significantly, that both the 1951 and 1952 tests the U.S. conducted at the Eniwetok atoll "included tests involving similar reactions."

Thursday's announcement was published in Pravda under the heading: "Government information on the test of the hydrogen bomb in the Soviet Union."

The announcement was not given special prominence. It appeared at the top of page 2. Pravda said the Soviet Union had recently exploded a hydrogen bomb "with an experimental aim."

"As a result of the possession of mighty power of thermonuclear fission in the hydrogen bomb, the explosion was of great strength. The test showed that the power of the hydrogen bomb is many times greater than the power of atomic bombs."

Pravda said the news that Russia possesses the H-bomb

Plane Clues Checked

KETCHIKAN, Alaska (AP)—An oil slick on an isolated island sound and reports of a wandering plane along the coastal inlets led Wednesday to a stepped-up search in southeastern Alaska for a missing New Mexico plane with five persons aboard.

They were new clues in one of the north's largest aerial searches, in which 28 military aircraft of the United States and Canada are participating. A dozen or more small-plane pilots were also scanning an estimated 6,000 square miles of southeast Alaska while most of the military planes concentrated on the British Columbia mainland.

An oil slick was found at the mouth of Moira Sound on Prince of Wales Island. That is almost directly west of the Annette Island airport from which Ellis Hall, 54-year-old Albuquerque oil man, took off with his wife, two daughters and 17-year-old Patrick Hibben late Monday.

As the day's checking of fishing craft and fish-trap tenders along the bleak Alaska coast proceeded, the clues drew a trail of a wandering plane southward along the coast at low altitude.

It was reported to have turned up Very Inlet, toward E.C., but a fish-trap tender said later that a plane believed to be the same wanderer came out of the inlet and turned back northward toward Annette.

That clue brought the divergent lines of the search back toward a centre again as search leaders said the plane might have headed toward Annette and flown beyond to disaster in Moira Sound.

Washington Issues Statement

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, issued this statement Wednesday night:

"The Soviet Union conducted an atomic test on the morning of August 12. Certain information to this effect came into our hands that night. Subsequent information on the subject indicates that this test involved both fission and thermonuclear reactions.

"It will be recalled that more than three years ago the United States decided to accelerate work on all forms of atomic weapons. Both in 1951 and the 1952 Eniwetok test series included tests involving similar reactions."

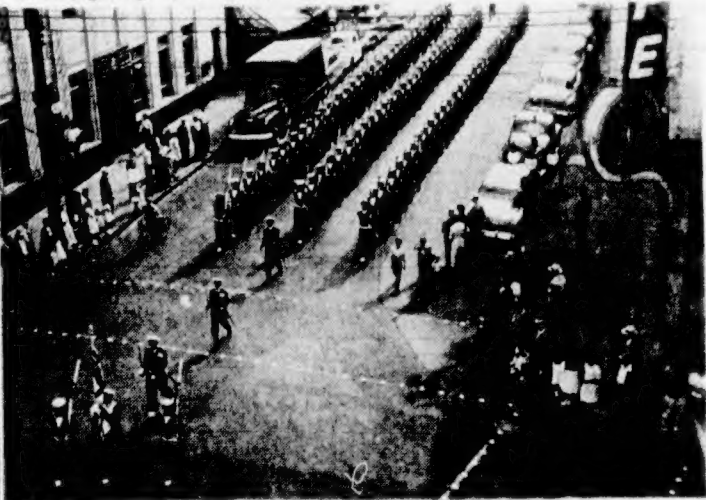

The AEC declined further comment.

Cabinet Backs Strike Stand

PARIS (AP)—The French cabinet voted Wednesday to back up Premier Joseph Laniel's measures to break France's worst post-war strike, now in its second week, and to protect non-strikers.

Six-year-old Brian Tindall of 20 Kelly Road is shown being briefed in the operation of a 40-mm. anti-aircraft gun aboard HMCS Cayuga Wednesday afternoon in the naval dockyard, Esquimalt. His instructor is AB Bert Barker of Victoria. Brian was a victim of polio last year and still wears a brace on his right leg. (See stories, Page 17.)

Pacific Command of the Royal Canadian Navy opened its Navy Day festivities Wednesday in Victoria with a parade which wound through the downtown streets in the morning. The parade started at the Bay Street Armory at 10 a.m. and was cheered by a crowd of approximately 20,000 lining the parade route.

Fire Probe 'Witnesses' Held

FORESTVILLE, Que. (CP)—Police Wednesday night held two men as "important" witnesses in connection with suspected arson in two forest fires at Ste. Therese du Colombier, 20 miles east of here.

Police did not identify the men but said one was the uncle of the other. Both are in their late 20s.

It was understood police believed the two men were not far from the place where two fires originated when they were first noticed Monday. Police said so far they have uncovered no motive for the alleged arson.

The two men are being held under guard by Anglo-Canadian Pulp and Paper Company police, under supervision and at the request of Quebec provincial police.

Half the town is owned by the company, which has a lease on huge timber lands in the district.

Meanwhile, more than 800 lumberjacks aided by a shift in wind and damp, cool weather, slowly hemmed in the major blaze, one of the most devastating in Quebec's history.

The fire, which now has come under provincial police investigation, almost touched off the evacuation of tiny St. Therese Monday.

Fifty men were rushed by plane from Rimouski into the area, 200 miles east of Quebec, and quickly brought it under control.

Now it is smoldering over an area of about one square mile and requires round-the-clock surveillance, because it is so close to the village.

Authorities insist there is no connection between the small fire near Ste. Therese and the main mass of blazing forest still 10 miles away from the village.

Reluctance of officials to say anything beyond that the fire was deliberately set was partially explained by one source who said that talk would interfere with the main job—getting the big fire under control.
